

2002 Cellers Unio Roureda Llicorella

A very interesting mix of black and red fruit, blackberries, with tart cranberries, creamy vanilla, and a clear note of coffee. Dark chocolate joins on the mid-palate. Tight tannins make it seem younger than its seven years. I would wait another few years before opening another one. The finish is mid-length. This would be terrific with any sauced red meat entree.

WHO: Cellers Unio

WHAT: Roureda Llicorella, Seleccio Especial

WHERE: Spain, Catalunya, Priorat

WHEN: 2002

<http://palatepress.com>