

2001 Monticello Vineyards
Proprietary Red, Premiere
Napa Valley

WHO: Monticello Vineyards
WHAT: Red Bordeaux-style Blend
WHERE: Napa Valley, California,
DESIGNATION: Premiere Napa Valley
WHEN: 2001

The nose was rich, deep with plums, cassis, and black cherry, with a touch of spice, perhaps nutmeg and cinnamon. The palate opened black cherry and blackcurrant and a tingly touch of black pepper. Nutmeg and cinnamon peeked through on the mid-palate. Tannins were soft as silk, full, and perfectly balanced with acid. The finish not only lingered, but seemed to echo, pulse, growing with the memory of the taste, fade, then pulse again with the thought of the wine. Drink with very good friends. This would match perfectly with a mutton chop from Keens Steak House. Needless to say, this was Very Highly Recommended. DH

<http://palatepress.com>

2001 Monticello Vineyards
Proprietary Red, Premiere
Napa Valley

WHO: Monticello Vineyards
WHAT: Red Bordeaux-style Blend
WHERE: Napa Valley, California,
DESIGNATION: Premiere Napa Valley
WHEN: 2001

The nose was rich, deep with plums, cassis, and black cherry, with a touch of spice, perhaps nutmeg and cinnamon. The palate opened black cherry and blackcurrant and a tingly touch of black pepper. Nutmeg and cinnamon peeked through on the mid-palate. Tannins were soft as silk, full, and perfectly balanced with acid. The finish not only lingered, but seemed to echo, pulse, growing with the memory of the taste, fade, then pulse again with the thought of the wine. Drink with very good friends. This would match perfectly with a mutton chop from Keens Steak House. Needless to say, this was Very Highly Recommended. DH

<http://palatepress.com>

2001 Monticello Vineyards
Proprietary Red, Premiere
Napa Valley

WHO: Monticello Vineyards
WHAT: Red Bordeaux-style Blend
WHERE: Napa Valley, California,
DESIGNATION: Premiere Napa Valley
WHEN: 2001

The nose was rich, deep with plums, cassis, and black cherry, with a touch of spice, perhaps nutmeg and cinnamon. The palate opened black cherry and blackcurrant and a tingly touch of black pepper. Nutmeg and cinnamon peeked through on the mid-palate. Tannins were soft as silk, full, and perfectly balanced with acid. The finish not only lingered, but seemed to echo, pulse, growing with the memory of the taste, fade, then pulse again with the thought of the wine. Drink with very good friends. This would match perfectly with a mutton chop from Keens Steak House. Needless to say, this was Very Highly Recommended. DH

<http://palatepress.com>

2001 Monticello Vineyards
Proprietary Red, Premiere
Napa Valley

WHO: Monticello Vineyards
WHAT: Red Bordeaux-style Blend
WHERE: Napa Valley, California,
DESIGNATION: Premiere Napa Valley
WHEN: 2001

The nose was rich, deep with plums, cassis, and black cherry, with a touch of spice, perhaps nutmeg and cinnamon. The palate opened black cherry and blackcurrant and a tingly touch of black pepper. Nutmeg and cinnamon peeked through on the mid-palate. Tannins were soft as silk, full, and perfectly balanced with acid. The finish not only lingered, but seemed to echo, pulse, growing with the memory of the taste, fade, then pulse again with the thought of the wine. Drink with very good friends. This would match perfectly with a mutton chop from Keens Steak House. Needless to say, this was Very Highly Recommended. DH

<http://palatepress.com>