

2011 L'École no 41 Chenin Blanc

WHO: L'École no 41
WHAT: Chenin Blanc
WHERE: Columbia Valley, Washington
WHEN: 2011

Chenin blanc may be truly at home in the Loire Valley, its home in France, but it can obviously work in a number of other – and sometimes unexpected – locations. The Columbia Valley seems to be a lovely place for it as well, judging from this great value wine drawn from three old vineyards planted in the late 1970s. For $14, you get the classic chenin blanc trick of texture and elegance and beautiful acidity, with a great aromatic presence. This wine has depth and lift, some lovely stonefruit notes, good length, and it goes beautifully with a summertime seafood feast. Highly recommended. RC
